From the Editor

The advancement of medical practice and its scientific basis have made tremendous stride in the past half century. This is particularly evidenced in the field of cardiovascular medicine. Acute rheumatic fever, and its sequela rheumatic heart disease, were prevalent in the 1950s and 60s. Most cardiological practice then was centred on management of these diseases. The biggest burden of cardiac surgery in the 1970s and 80s was valvular surgery, besides congenital heart disease. Nowadays, one hardly encounters a case on acute rheumatic fever. Most congenital heart diseases are repaired in early childhood, and many by minimally invasive techniques.

All these are not possible without the continuous update of medical knowledge and skills of the practising cardiologists. The College was founded twenty years ago, and its predecessor the Hong Kong Cardiological Society in the late 1960s. A major objective of the Society and the College is to provide a mean for continuous medical education and training.

To this end, the last quarter has been a busy time for the College. A number of local and international scientific meetings were organized by the College, or in collaboration with other local or overseas organizations. The Hong Kong Heart Foundation Cardiology Training Fellowship Programme 2013/2014 is launched, and interview of applicants has just finished.

The 20th Anniversary Presidential Dinner was held not only to celebrate the establishment of the College two decades ago, but also to express our sincere thanks to all the supporters, sponsors, friends, and College members. Their contributions have made possible to upkeep the standard of cardiological practice of Hong Kong inline with world standard and also with advance countries in many aspects.

The other objective of the College is to arouse the community on heart health and heart disease prevention. World Heart Day this year, with increase in activities, has just come to a close. Another major project for the coming two and half years is the “Heart-Safe School” Project. With the employment of the Project officer and Assistant, it has geared up into full swing.

Lastly, may I wish everyone of you a Merry Christmas and a prosperous year 2013.

Jump Rope For Heart Program (JRFH)

In this academic year (2012-2013), 117 schools have registered for the Jump Rope for Heart program. More schools are expected to join the program after the JRFH Rope Skipping Instructor Workshop held on 9 December 2012.

The JRFH Rope Skipping Instructor Workshop was held on Sunday, 9 December 2012, at TWGHs Sin Chu Wan Primary School. Around 120 teachers and skippers attended the workshop. They learned more about the Jump Rope for Heart Program and the techniques of teaching rope skipping skills to students.

The JRFH Finance Committee approved granting HK$30,000 to sponsor the Public Conference of the 4th Asian Preventive Cardiology & Cardiac Rehabilitation Conference (APCCRC) held on 2 December 2012.

The College Council recommended JRFH to sponsor HK$140,000 (HK$2,000 per school for a maximum of 70 schools) to support the “Creative Fruity Venture - Secondary Schools Fruit Promotion Project 2012/13” organized by the Department of Health. The JRFH Finance Committee agreed to contribute half of the actual subsidy up to maximum of HK$70,000, with the remaining contributed by the College.

Having received the invitation from the Hong Kong Tuberculosis, Chest & Heart Diseases Association, JRFH had arranged a rope skipping team: “Unique”, to perform at the opening ceremony of the “Actions for Heart Health” Exhibition 2012 at Dragon Centre on Saturday, 10 November 2012.
